

A last print is a statement that two parties agreed a price at a time. It is not cash. Cash appears after clearing, settlement, margin, and the absence of a fail. This paper is the last layer of the map and the last line of the memo.

THE PATH

- Execution: the venue accepts the order under its rules.
- Matching: a contra is found at a price the rules allow.
- Reporting: the print is published. Publication is not settlement.
- Clearing: a central counterparty or bilateral process novates or records the obligation.
- Margin and collateral: resources are locked against the obligation.
- Settlement: securities and cash move on the stated cycle. Fails are a market event.
- Corporate actions: the object itself can change while you think you still hold it.

QUESTIONS FOR LINE 5

- Where is this booked and who is the clearer?
- What is the settlement cycle and what happens on a fail?
- What margin can be called, overnight, and by whom?
- Can the instrument be borrowed? What happens if the borrow is recalled?
- What corporate action sits on the calendar inside the horizon of the claim?
